

1008 Names of Shiva Membership

INTRODUCTION

About 1233 years ago, Adi Shankaracharya established Char Dham (four monasteries) at Sringeri, Puri, Dwarka and Badrinath to take the true message of Sanatan Dharma and to re-establish the eternal principles and values of life and religion, i.e. Hinduism.

Char Dham is a group of four pilgrimage sites for attaining moksha (salvation). Char Dham, as defined by Adi Shankaracharya, needs no promotion or propagation.

The culture of Southeast Asia and India has many similarities. Which includes tradition and customs; many other countries also share the same with India. India is the land of great philosophers and thinkers. Saints like Mahavira, Mahatma Buddha, and Guru Nanak, who preached love, peace and compassion, have been seen in different time periods. Buddhism influenced many parts of Asia and including many countries such as Cambodia, Thailand, Indonesia, Vietnam and others. The time has come to give a global expansion to these values to spread peace, humanity and compassion and reach the mantra of Vasudhaiva Kutumbakam, which means that the whole planet is one society.

Indian civilizational values and religious influence have always been present in Cambodia and other countries in Southeast Asia. There are many ancient Shiva temples, Shiva Linga and other marks of Hinduism, which indicate the presence of Dham in Siem Reap, situated on the banks of river Kabal Spean in Kulen hills. People call it Pancham Dham because of its religious sanctity.

HISTORICAL BACKGROUND

The Khmer King built hundreds of temples in Kamboj, and the Buddhists have kept the eternal culture alive there. There are thousands of Shiva Linga carved on the riverbed of the Kabal Spean River. It is believed that the Water of this river is sacred, and people who are childless can become parents after drinking Water from the Shiva Linga. Shiva, in Hindu tradition, is related to fertility.

Kho - Ker, the capital of the Angkor Kingdom from 928 AD to 944 AD, has one of the most remote temple complexes around Angkor. It has seven-tier pyramids, and the Shiva Linga was placed on top of the seven-tier structure. These temples are in the neighbourhood of Angkor Wat, one of the ancient temples of Lord Vishnu. This Khoker Shiva temple located here is unique and one of a kind.

The world's largest temple of Lord Vishnu, thousands of Shiva Lingas and hundreds of other Hindu gods and goddesses are located in Siem Reap. There are more than 1008 Shiva Lingas in Cambodia between the Kulen Hills and under the Kabal Spean River; they are anointed by the water stream of the Kabal Spean River. Apart from this, temples of more than 100 Hindu temples are present here. Over the years, extreme efforts have been invested to restore the Dham as the Fifth Dham.

Besides having all devotees, trust members, buddhist monks from Cambodia monasteries, the explorer and founder, joining bhumi pooja, May 30th, is declared as Sthapana Divas of 1008 Names of Shiva. It was decided that every year on the same day, the trust would organise a yatra in which hundreds of devotees would participate.
